Is technology making people lazy?

Admittedly, the development of technology has brought great convenience to people's lives. However, there are two sides to every coin. Technology does lead to our laziness, as some studies have shown that computers are making us lazier.

In the first place, information technology is making us mentally lazy. Once encountering problems in real life, we tend to blindly rely on suggestions on the Internet without analyzing their specific conditions, and gradually, we may become lazy thinkers and lose the ability to think independently. In addition, technology is making us physically lazier as well. We depend more on the convenience of shopping apps than ever before. Sometimes, although restaurants and shops are close to us, we should rather stay at home ordering meals and buying things online than go out. Last but not least, various information on the Internet catches our attention easily, distracting many of us from our work and thus lowering our work efficiency dramatically.

In a word, some technology is making us lazier, due to the fact that computer users tend to become mentally and physically inactive.

Do violent video games lead to violence?

With the rapid development of computer technology, the video game industry has boomed in recent years. However, some studies have shown that violent elements in violent video games exert negative influence on kids. From where I stand, violent video games do lead to violence.

To begin with, the way children communicate tends to be influenced by the way virtual characters speak in video games. In daily life, if children communicate with others in a rude way as virtual characters do in violent video games, they may form a bad habit of verbal abuse, which will gradually evolve into behavioral violence. Furthermore, behavior of characters in violent games also has a negative impact on children. In real life, kids are likely to believe that it is acceptable to solve problems through violence. In addition, if exposed to violent video games regularly, children will easily develop an irritable personality.

In a word, violent video games do harm to kids' growth, having negative effects on the way they communicate and deal with matters and on their personalities.

Are people becoming addicted to technology?

The rapid development of technology has brought profound changes almost in every aspect of people's lives and numerous studies have shown that people are becoming more and more addicted to technology. For my part, it is true that many people are becoming addicted to technology.

In the first place, those who are under pressure in real life and work are more likely to release their stress and seek spiritual relief in virtual world by playing computer games or chatting with others on WeChat. Wherever you go, be it in a subway or on the street, you can see Phubbers whose eyes seem glued to the screen of their smart phones. In the second place, impelled by inborn inertia, many people tend to finish their physical tasks with the help of technology. The more they resort to technology, the more addicted they become to technology.

All in all, it is an indisputable fact that people are becoming more addicted to technology, owing to the fact that it can release their psychological and physical pressure.

The past few years have witnessed a mounting number of people using translation apps. To this practice, people's attitudes differ considerably. Some applaud it warmly whereas others criticize and even condemn it harshly. Personally, I believe that we should not go to extremes, for the use of translation apps has both advantages and disadvantages.

On the one hand, the use of translation apps is beneficial in many ways. Most importantly, it can reduce, to a great extent, the burden on people who have to deal with texts in foreign languages. Besides, it can supply reference for students of foreign languages and help them make progress.

On the other hand, the use of translation apps can be harmful. First, those apps are not always reliable. They often make mistakes in translating, some of which are very serious. Besides, it may result in students' dependence upon the machine and deprive them of the motivation to study.

Bringing what has been discussed into a conclusion, we may say that the use of translation apps is a two-edged sword, which brings along both benefits and trouble. But we should not give up eating for fear of being choked. While we should allow people to use them, measures should also be taken to solve the problems caused thereby.

Today, in the context of this era featured by increasing digitization and technicalization, the use of PowerPoint in class appears to be particularly prevalent and important. From my perspective, the popularity of PowerPoint in class has greatly facilitated teaching and learning.

In order to make it more detailed, the necessity of PowerPoint would be illustrated in the following respects. As for students, with words, pictures and animation, PowerPoint allows the knowledge to be displayed intuitively and vividly to them so that they can entirely concentrate on the content instead of furiously taking notes. Besides, it is indispensable for teachers to highlight the crucial points in class through PowerPoint, making the presentation more understandable and learning more efficient.

Taking into account all the mentioned above, we may draw a conclusion that it is PowerPoint that improves the teaching quality and optimizes teaching process. Only in this way could both sides embrace an enjoyable class, especially for students to gain knowledge interestedly and lightheartedly.

Along with the rapid improvement of science and technology in recent years, the use of online dictionaries is becoming increasingly popular, which, to a certain degree, has aroused public concern. As far as I am concerned, we are supposed to attach importance to online dictionaries for our better development.

The popularity of online dictionaries, bringing convenience to our everyday life and work, may be explained by many reasons. To analyze the main reason, using online dictionaries can save us plenty of time, which is in accord with people's pursuit for higher efficiency. To analyze the secondary reason, it is so convenient for us to look up words on the web because we can effortlessly and rapidly find what we want by tapping the keyboard and the answer comes in no more than three seconds. In a word, online dictionaries show profound significance as time goes by.

Considering those mentioned above, a sound conclusion can be drawn that the use of online dictionaries is beneficial, which should be widely advocated. From now on, we should make every effort to attach more importance to it. As long as we pay enough attention to it, our society as well as our life can benefit from it.

Online libraries are becoming increasingly popular, as the modern technology advances. From my perspective, in such a digital age, online libraries are of great benefit for people as well as the whole society.

First and foremost, online libraries encourage modern people to read more books, in that it provides a convenient and handy virtual venue for reading. With only a smartphone or a kindle in hand, people can readily read digital books wherever they are, without bothering to carry heavy books with them. Furthermore, online libraries makes it possible for readers to obtain the materials they are aimed at reading. Books that are unavailable in brick-and-mortar libraries—such as academic papers written by prominent scholars in the United States—can be easily found in online libraries. Finally, reading in online libraries is also an effective way to save natural resources because it reduces considerably the consumption of paper which is made of wood.

In a nutshell, online libraries are both convenient and environmentally friendly, helping people to develop the habit of reading in a regular manner. Therefore, we are supposed to make best of online libraries.

With the advancements of technology and changes of people's ideas, the way of education is also changing constantly. Obviously, online education is so popular in our society that students just need to stay at home and learn the lesson online. In this Internet era, this phenomenon is inevitable, and the reasons behind it are as follows.

In my opinion, I think three factors may contribute to this phenomenon. First of all, with our government strongly encouraging online education currently, so many public schools and private training schools are advocating and carrying out online education. In addition, people's pace of life is getting increasingly faster and more and more knowledge are needed to improve themselves, so the online education is more convenient for them to study in their spare time. Last but not least, the arrival of the epidemic requires people to stay at home. Therefore, online education becomes their only choice to learn, and then it becomes more prevalent in people's life.

Based on the analyses above, as far as I am concerned, this trend will continue in the future. Besides, this phenomenon is so positive, which should be attached more attention from the government and the public.

With the development of economy and the progress of science and technology, the way of transportation is changing constantly. It is obvious that nowadays people can choose various means of transportation, such as plane, high-speed train or car. In this era of rapid development, this phenomenon is inevitable and the reasons behind it are as follows.

In my opinion, I think there are three reasons for this phenomenon. First of all, as the Chinese government is increasing the construction of high-speed rail, so many places can be directly reached by high-speed rail, reducing people's travel time. In addition, people's economic conditions are getting better and better. Most people can afford all kinds of transportation costs, so there is no excessive economic pressure when choosing transportation means. Last but not least, due to the expansion of people's range of activities, they need to use different means of transportation to achieve their travel purposes, which urges them to choose the most suitable means of transportation, so the ways of transportation are becoming more and more diversified.

Dear Daisy,

I've received your letter where you asked me to recommend a city suitable for teaching English, so I'm writing to offer you some advice hoping that will be helpful.

My recommendation is Beijing. On the one hand, Beijing is not only the capital of China but also an ancient city with a long history and brilliant cultures. Moreover, it's a famous tourist attraction that attracts countless visitors from home and abroad. Therefore, in Beijing, you'll experience the unique charm of Chinese traditional cultures as well as appreciate the magnificent scenery. On the other hand, since Beijing has become a cosmopolitan city, English as a basic communication tool has drawn more and more attention. Thanks to the background, the English teaching industry is flourishing, involving primary and secondary schools, universities and numerous private language institutions, which means you'll possess boundless job opportunities. I'm sure you'll find a satisfying job.

I sincerely hope you can come to Beijing to teach English. I'm looking forward to your early arrival. If you have further enquiries, don't hesitate to tell me.

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua

范文 2 :

Dear Tom,

On hearing that you are planning to teach English in China and inquire which city to work in, I'd like to recommend our capital city Beijing to you which is an international metropolis.

The reasons why I recommend Beijing can be listed as follows. First of all, there are a lot of English-speaking foreigners in Beijing, which could help you adapt to life here very quickly. Furthermore, as the capital of several dynasties, Beijing has a profound cultural background, so you can better experience the extensive and profound traditional Chinese culture in Beijing. Most importantly, parents in Beijing attach great importance to their children's English learning and many people who work in multinational companies also need to learn English.

I truly hope that you can come to Beijing to start your teaching life and I'm looking forward to your arrival. If you have any question about the city, please feel free to contact me for further information.

Yours sincerely,

Li Ming

Dear Daisy,

In your last letter, you asked me for my advice with regard to the choice of a proper place to learn Chinese. Personally, I'd like to recommend the Chinese Corner.

The reasons why I advise you to go there are chiefly as follows. At first, the Chinese Corner consists of people who want to learn Chinese well. You can share your experience with each other and talk about whatever you want, which will definitely increase your chances of practicing oral Chinese and improve your Chinese in a faster way. Besides, your communication at the Chinese Corner will enhance mutual understanding and promote the friendship between you and others. If you are lucky enough, you may meet someone that could become one of your best friends. After all, friendship multiplies joys and divides grief.

I'm sure as long as you frequent the Chinese corner, you'll make great progress in learning Chinese. I hope my suggestion will be helpful to you. If you have further questions, please feel free to ask me at any time.

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua

范文 2 :

Dear Tom,

I am delighted to learn that Chinese has a fascination for you and stimulates your enthusiasm. Now that you have asked for my advice about where to learn Chinese, I will try to put forward some useful suggestions here.

From my perspective, the Confucius Institute is an ideal place for you to learn Chinese. Two reasons account for this. For one thing, the Confucius Institute boasts diverse and practical language learning programs, with plentiful standard modern Chinese teaching materials and the most qualified teaching staff. For another, you can enjoy various cultural activities in there. The Confucius Institute, more often than not, offers a good many displays and performances concerning aspects of Chinese culture, including Chinese festivals, movies, cooking, art and music, etc, which can not only boost your Chinese learning but also provide insights into traditional Chinese culture.

I hope you will find my advice helpful and wish you all the best.

Sincerely yours

参考译文 1:

The concept of family in China is related to its cultural traditions. Large harmonious families used to be very enviable. It was not uncommon that four generations were under one roof in the past. Due to such a tradition, many young people would continue to live with their parents after they got married. Nowadays, this tradition is changing. With the improvement of housing conditions, more and more young couples choose to live separately from their parents. Even so, they are still closely connected. Many old people still help to look after their grandchildren while young couples spend time visiting their parents, especially in such important holidays as the Spring Festival and the Mid-Autumn Festival.

范文 1:

Dear Tom,

I have just received your letter and I am so excited to hear that you are planning to study in a Chinese university. Now I am writing to recommend a university to you. That is Beijing University.

There are several reasons for my recommendation. To begin with, as a renowned comprehensive university in the capital city of China, Beijing University boasts a wide range of academic disciplines, with a great atmosphere of study. What's more, Beijing, where Beijing University is located, enjoys a good climate with four distinct seasons, similar to your hometown, which means you can adapt to it quite well. Finally, I am now studying on this campus. If you come, we can study and eat delicious food together. And I can't wait to teach you to speak Chinese.

I hope you will find these proposals useful and I am looking forward to meeting you on our campus.

Sincerely yours

Li Hua

范文 2:

Dear Daisy,

I'm glad to know that you feel like studying in China. As for how to choose a right university, I'm writing to you to express my views.

I'd like to recommend Peking University to you. First and foremost, Peking University is one of the best universities in China and enjoys a great reputation both at home and abroad. If you can study there, you'll gain guidance from the teachers with high academic achievements, which will help you get more insight into professional knowledge. Secondly, various students' associations will be organized to cater to students' needs. According to your hobbies, you can be free to choose what you're interested in. They'll provide a good platform on which not only will your student life be greatly enriched, but also you can make friends to develop your social skills. Finally, the campus is extremely beautiful. Undoubtedly, you'll be deeply attracted by such a fascinating campus.

Peking University is a place that countless students yearn for. I believe studying there will be one of your most precious treasures and best memories.

Yours sincerely

Li Hua

参考译文 1:

The full name of a Han Chinese is made up of the family name and the given name. Chinese names have the characteristic that the family name is always put before the given name. For thousands of years, paternal surnames have been passed on from generation to generation. Nowadays, however, it is not rare for a child to take his or her mother's family name. Generally speaking, a given name contains one or two Chinese characters, which often carry parents' hope for their children. From the name of a child, we can conclude what kind of people their parents expect them to be, or what kind of life to lead. Parents attach great importance to naming a child as it tends to be a lifelong company to the child.

On June 14, Friday, a volunteer activity where many students took an active part in visiting the local Nursing House was organized by the Student Union and it turns out to be a big success.

The activity was aimed at encouraging students to visit the elderly at the Nursing House and help elderly people deal with their troubles both physical and psychological. Many students volunteered to participate in this good deed and were engaged in helping the elderly here out by making their meals, washing their clothes and chatting with them. When asked about those volunteers' feelings about such an experience, all of them responded with a smile, saying "what a wonderful practice and I really appreciate this experience, for it makes me learn to care more for others in need."

All in all, the activity turns out to be a success not only for the visited elderly but for those students involved.

Paper cutting is a unique form of Chinese traditional folk art with a history of more than 2,000 years. Paper cutting probably originated in the Han Dynasty, following the invention of the paper. Since then, it has been spread widely in many parts of China. The materials and tools for paper cutting are simple: paper and scissors. Paper cutting works are usually made of red paper, because red is associated with happiness in traditional Chinese culture. Therefore, in the wedding, the Spring Festival and other festive occasions, red paper cutting is the first choice of door and window decoration.

An Impressive Activities-Visiting

In order to help us students to enrich life and broaden horizon, the Student Union organized a meaningful activity on last weekend--visiting the local farm, by which we grasped much useful knowledge about agriculture.

The farm we visited is located in the suburb of Beijing and far away from our school, which covers an area of 1000 square feet. Along with native foods like rice and potatoes, the farmers on the farm grow many organic vegetables, including corn, cucumbers, tomatoes and so forth. Besides, the farm breeds a host of local species such as dairy cattle, geese, chicken by modern scientific technique. One of the most impressive things for us is that by means of green farming methods, the problem of environmental pollution has been effectively alleviated.

This outdoors activity has a really deep impression for us. Not only did it get us closer to the nature and relieve pressure from us, it also enhances our professional knowledge about husbandry technology.

Lion Dancing is a traditional Chinese folk performance with a history of more than 2,000 years. In the Lion Dancing, two performers share one lion costume, one performer moves the head of costume, the other moves his body and tail. They work together skillfully, imitating the lion's movements. The lion is also the king of animals, symbolizing happiness and good luck, so people usually perform the Lion Dancing during the Spring Festival and other festivals and holidays. Lion Dancing can also be seen on other important occasions, such as the opening ceremony of a shop and wedding ceremonies, often attracting large audience.

Lanterns, which originated from the East Han Dynasty, was first used for lighting. In the Tang Dynasty, they were used to celebrate the peaceful life. From then on, lanterns have become popular in various parts of China. A lantern is usually made of thin paper, in various colours, shapes and sizes. Red lanterns symbolize happy life and prosperous business, traditional Chinese culture and thus are hung up in holidays and festivals such as the Spring Festival, Lantern Festival and National Day. Today, red lanterns can be seen in many places of the world.
