Part I Writing

参考范文：

Interpersonal relationships, as we all know, play a crucial role in our physical and mental health. It's of great significance for us to maintain a warm and friendly relationship with our classmates. Here are a few tips.

First and foremost, respect for others is the foundation of good interpersonal relationships. By giving respect to others, we can build mutual trust and friendly relations. Secondly, communication is key. It is an important part of interaction. Through active communication, we get to know others better and are able to build more genuine and deeper relationships. Thirdly, companionship is a necessary element in relationships, too. Being there and being a good listener when your classmates are in trouble matter a lot in your relationship. In short, all good interpersonal relationships are built on respect, communication, and companionship.

College students will reap the benefits from friendly relationships with their classmates. Studies have shown that college students who have strong relationships with their classmates are happier and have fewer health problems. Thus, I firmly believe that college students should attach great importance to interpersonal relationships.

Part IV Translation

参考译文：

The Chinese government has always attached great importance to compulsory education, so that every child has the opportunity to receive it. Since 1986, the Compulsory Education Law was promulgated, unremitting efforts have been made to achieve the goal of universal compulsory education. Nowadays, children in China start school at the age of 6 and receive a nine-year compulsory education from primary school to junior middle school. Starting from the fall semester of 2008, the tuition fee for compulsory education has been exempted. With the implementation of a series of educational reforms, the quality of compulsory education in China has improved significantly.
